JACKSONVILLE, ILLINOIS, TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 31, 1904.

ROOSEVELT AT GETTYSBURG

TAKES PART IN MEMORIAL SERVICES

Escorted to Historic Battlefield by Several Hundred Veterans—Services Held and Statues Dedicated in Other Cities.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 30.—President Roosevelt and party reached the historic battleground at 8:30 to day. At Pennmar, where the special train was sidetracked during the night, a crowd began to assemble early this morning and before leaving the president appeared on the rear platform of the private car and was given an enthusiastic reception. He spoke briefly, saying:

"I will not attempt to speak now, as I am to speak later in the day. I shall merely repeat how glad I am to see all of you, especially those who wear the button that shows you have a right greater than any of the rest of us to be here, and to rejoice in all that this Memorial day means."

When the train stopped in Gettysburg the presidential party entered carriages and started on a drive over the battlefield. The president was escorted to the cemetery on the battlefield by a body of several hundred veterans of the civil war and several military organizations. Governor Pennypacker presided at the ceremonies, which were held in the rostrum on Cemetery hill. After the memorial service of the G. A. R. had been completed and school children had strewn flowers over the graves of thousands of dead, Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the senate, pronounced the invocation. Governor Pennypacker introduced the president in a brief speech, referring feelingly to the death of Senator Quay.

As President Roosevelt rose to speak a downpour of rain began and continued throughout the time he addressed the great assemblage. He was accorded an enthusiastic reception, notwithstanding the rain, and the crowd of ten thousand people in the cemetery remained to hear the address despite the thorough drenching it received.

Referring in the beginning of his speech to the allusion of Governor Pennypacker to the death of Senator Quay, the president said:

"Governor Pennypacker alluded to the fact that to day Pennsylvania mourns its senior senator. The regiment which Senator Quay was instrumental in raising took part in this battle of Gettysburg—a battle in which Governor Pennypacker shared. Senator Quay was not in it. He had gone with another regiment, and it is appropriate at this time to recall the fact that, when the term of service of that regiment expired, just before Fredericksburg, Senator Quay declined to accept discharge and continued as a volunteer with the army that fought at Fredericksburg and won a medal of honor on that bloody day."

AT CHICAGO.
Chicago, May 30.—Despite chilly, threatening weather Memorial day was observed with the usual ceremonies. Grand Army men decorated the graves of fallen comrades in the morning and in the afternoon there was a parade of infantry and artillery from Fort Sheridan, regiments of state troops, veterans of the civil and Spanish wars. In honor of naval heroes a salute was fired by the revenue cutter Morrill and flowers were strewn on the waters of the lake.

At Oakwoods cemetery the graves of 6,000 confederates who died at Camp Douglas were decorated.

By order of Archbishop Quigley a Memorial day sermon was preached in every Catholic cemetery in the Chicago archdiocese by priests especially assigned for that purpose.

Chicago, May 30.—In spite of a chilly wind, that made the weather decidedly uncomfortable ceremonies in which Chicago honored its dead heroes of the civil war, including a parade of survivors, were carried out faithfully to day.

AT GRANT'S TOMB.
New York, May 30.—Perhaps the most notable observance of Memorial day was at the tomb of General Grant, U. S. Grant post, Grand Army, Brooklyn, had charge of the exercises. The United States gunboat Topeka was stationed in the Hudson river in honor of the occasion and as the veterans arrived at the tomb the ship fired a salute of twenty-one guns. The oration was delivered by "Corporal" James Tanner.

AT WASHINGTON.
Washington, May 30.—The usual Decoration day exercises were held to day at various national cemeteries. At Arlington, where the chief interest centered, Gen. John C. Black, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, delivered the oration of the day.

Springfield, May 30.—At the national cemetery at Camp Butler, east of Springfield, where lie buried 3,000 union and 750 confederate dead, memorial exercises were held under the auspices of the Grand Army and the graves of both union and confederate dead were decorated by school children.

At Hastings Senator Deitrich presided. A feature of the day there was the dedication of a monument to Former Congressman Laird. There was general observance of the day throughout the state.

AT SPRINGFIELD.
Springfield, May 30.—Memorial day exercises were held in representative hall. The oration was delivered by Alfred Baylis, state superintendent of public instruction.

BANDITS' TERMS

Cannot Be Granted by Turkey in the Case of Captured American.

Tangier, May 30.—Rear Admiral Chadwick, accompanied by an aide, the United States consul general and two marines, visited M. Torres, representative of the sultan at Tangier. The interview lasted ten minutes after which Torres returned the visit at the United States consulate. The Brooklyn firing a salute in his honor. Torres has informed the American and British representatives that he cannot grant the terms of ransom, the bandit who kidnapped the American Pedlaris. A special courier, it is reported, has been sent to the sultan conveying the American view.

Tangier, May 30.—The cruiser Brooklyn, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Chadwick, has arrived here. Other vessels of the squadron are following. Authorities here consider the position of the American Pedlaris and stepson, who were kidnapped by bandits, now more serious than before.

Washington, May 30.—United States Consul Gummere at Tangier cables the state department that threats against the lives of Pedlaris and Varley have been made unless the bandits' demands are granted. A dispatch from Admiral Jewell announces departure for Tangier of the cruisers Olympia, Baltimore and Cleveland.

"SOO" PROPERTIES

Ontario Cabinet Order Possession Given the New Company.

Toronto, Ont., May 30.—On receipt of information that Speyer & Co. had completed sale of the Consolidated Lake Superior company securities the Ontario cabinet held a special meeting, at which an order was passed declaring provisions under which bonds of the Canadian Improvement company to the amount of $2,000,000 are to be guaranteed by the government had been complied with. In giving up possession of the "Soo" properties to the new company Speyer & Co.'s manager also handed over $7,500,000 net profits which had accrued from the operation of pulp and saw mills. It is expected here operation of the "Soo" properties will be begun at once.

NAVAL EXERCISES.

Annapolis, May 30.—The annual exercises before the board of visitors of the naval academy began to day. The reception marked the opening of the ceremonies of the closing week of the academy.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 30.—Notwithstanding that the day was a holiday, the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held a session and took several preliminary ballots for election of an assistant grand chief engineer. Nearly twenty candidates were voted for on the opening ballot, but when the last ballot was taken the number had narrowed down to five. M. W. Cadie, Sedalia, Mo., was leading, with M. H. Shaw, Youngstown, Ohio; H. F. Wilson, Pottsville, Pa., and Joseph Robe, Mattson, Ill., following. Three assistant grand chief engineers are to be chosen. COSSACKS ARE DEFEATED

TWO THOUSAND ROUTED BY JAPANESE

Russians Believe Assault on Port Arthur Will Soon Begin—Another Army Division Sent Out by Japan.

Tokio, May 30.—A detachment of Japanese troops attacked and defeated 2,000 Cossacks at Ai Yang Pien men, northeast of Feng Wang Cheng, Saturday. The engagement lasted from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m. The Japanese lost four men killed and twenty-eight wounded. Russian casualties are not known.

General Oku, in command of Japanese forces operating against Port Arthur, reports Russians have abandoned Chen Ko Chen Pan, Huang Shan and Liu Shu Tan. Russians have been seen east of Chen Ko Chen Pan.

London, May 30.—A Central News dispatch says Japanese after defeating Cossacks at Ai Yang Pien men occupied that place and reinforcements were sent forward to support them.

Liao Yang, May 30.—Lieutenant Shirindoff of the fourth battalion has reported the railway line north of Kiu Chou between the stations of Shienchen and Vanzaline and to-morrow will complete the work between Hwangy and Gifan. Chinese are readily offering themselves for employment. A typhoon prevails, which hinders Japanese landing operations and heavy rains are spoiling the roads. Russians, it is reported, have captured a Japanese conveyer.

St. Petersburg, May 30.—The war office received the following from General Kuropatkin to day:

"This morning I received a report the Japanese advance on Kwan Tien had begun from Suhatz, number of the enemy not known. A detachment of cavalry consisting of 150 sabers moved forward from the main body May 27 and approached within eight kilometers southeast of Wafon Hoon station, but on encountering our frontier guards fell back rapidly. On May 28 a Russian patrol heard heavy artillery fire in the direction of Kiu Chou. The impression at headquarters is growing the main objective of the enemy is Port Arthur and it would not be surprising if actual assault on that fortress began within a fortnight. No important movement of General Kuropatkin has been reported up to the time this dispatch was filed.

Washington, May 30.—Advices received here report departure from Japan of another army division. While its destination is not stated it is conjectured these troops are about to close in the Russians' rear in northeast China, cutting off raiding parties which have threatened General Kuropatkin's communications. There are no less than 15,000 soldiers in the expedition.

Chefoo, May 30.—From Chinese sources it is learned Russians have four lines of defense between Naushan and Port Arthur.

NO CONFIRMATION.

St. Petersburg, May 30, 8:10 p. m.—There is no confirmation at the general staff of the reported defeat of 2,000 at Ai Yang Pien men, northeast of Feng Wang Cheng, but a message from Kuropatkin issued this afternoon recording Japanese advance from Kuan Dian Slang (Kwan Tien) to Suhatz lends color to the Tokio report. In view of the fact Ai Yang Pien men lies between the above points, and REPORTS.

Mukden, May 30.—Lieut. Newton A. McCully, U. S. N., recently naval attaché at Tokio, but ordered to observe Russian fleet operations, is inside of the Russian lines at Port Arthur. Other attaches were recently at Liao Yang. Their present whereabouts are not ascertainable here.

Berlin, May 30.—The correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger at St. Petersburg telegraphs that Rear Admiral Prince Oukomsky, who, it was reported, had been hanged for treason at Port Arthur, is really now in St. Petersburg. He was recalled suffering from nervous strain. The correspondent says reports connecting Oukomsky with treason are without foundation.

TWO ENEMIES.

London, May 30.—Kuropatkin, the Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent says, is fighting two enemies, one at home, the other in Manchuria. While his military reputation is undergoing a terrible ordeal he is accused of failure as minister of war to make proper preparations for the war. The emperor is alleged to be so dissatisfied that he would dismiss both Alexieff and Kuropatkin were it not that he fears the effect on public opinion. The general impression among the highest classes is that the fall of Port Arthur ought to mark the end of the war and that if the Japanese succeed in this aim Russia's best interest would be to make peace. But nobody, the correspondent avers, possesses the moral courage to make such a suggestion to the emperor.

The correspondent also asserts that an agreement has been drafted whereby Germany promises armed support to Russia in necessary to prevent England and the United States from attempting to submit the far eastern question to an international congress and declares the recent relaxation of the anti-Jewish laws by Russia is the outcome of a desire of the minister of the interior to conciliate American opinion.

TRANSFER OF COMMITTEE.
Cleveland, Ohio, May 30.—Elmer Dwyer will leave Cleveland Wednesday morning for Chicago to superintend transfer of headquarters of the national Republican committee from Washington to Chicago. Dwyer will remain in charge of headquarters until after the convention, the latter part of June at least.

CONVENE TO DAY

Republicans will Resume Balloting for Candidate for Governor—No Nomination Expected To Day.

Springfield, May 30.—The Republican state convention, after a recess of eleven days, will convene to-morrow afternoon to resume balloting for a candidate for governor. The previous session lasted more than a week and fifty-eight ballots were taken, leaving the seven aspirants for the nomination about where they stood at the first ballot. None of the candidates has anything to predict except that no important changes are expected at the outset of the balloting to-morrow. It is the prevailing opinion to-night that no nomination will be made before Wednesday. Many believe the deadlock will be broken before Friday. There is much talk in favor of a proposal which was voted down, to nominate the remainder of the ticket, provided the deadlock is not broken to-morrow. This time it is proposed to except the nomination for lieutenant governor, leaving it to be taken up after the candidate for governor is named. The plan is endorsed by candidates for minor offices. A special train bearing Lowden delegates and friends arrived from Chicago this evening.

About the only story about to-night to which any credence whatever is given is that Yates and Lowden have agreed to throw their delegates to a third man. It is said the third man has not yet been named. It is declared to be a part of the compact that Yates is to go to the United States senate in 1907 and Lowden is to be made governor four years hence. All knowledge of such combination, however, is denied by the Yates and Lowden managers.

KANSAS FLOODS

All Rivers in the Sunflower State Out of Their Banks.

Kansas City, May 30.—All rivers throughout Kansas are out of their banks and the flood is doing much damage to railroad, farms and other property. In Topeka and Ottawa a number of houses were flooded, forcing occupants to seek higher places. Crops on lowlands are probably ruined and considerable livestock has been drowned. It is believed, however, the worst is over, as most streams are now stationary.

HELPS THE FARMER

Bob White A Useful Bird in Destroying Insect Pests.

Washington, May 30.—Ornithologists of the department of agriculture have been making an investigation of the economic value of the Bob White, as a result of which it is announced that the bird is "probably the most useful abundant species on farms."

Field observations, experiments, and examinations show that it consumes large quantities of weed seed and destroys many of the worst insect pests with which farmers have to contend and that it does not injure any crop. Some of the pests which it habitually destroys are Mexican cotton boll weevil, potato beetle, cotton worms, chinch bugs and Rocky mountain locusts, scourges which have desolation in their path and have caused losses to the extent of $100,000,000 in one year.

TOPEKA'S SEMI-CENTENNIAL

DAY CELEBRATED IN KANSAS CAPITAL

Great Crowds Take Part in the Exercises—Secretary of War Taft the Orator of the Day—His Address.

Topeka, Kan., May 30.—Topeka was decorated in holiday attire to day in honor of her semi-centennial and there were great crowds here. Secretary of War Taft was the orator of the day. He arrived in the city from the east at 1 o'clock and after riding at the head of the parade in a carriage with Governor Bailey was driven to the Auditorium. There Taft was greeted by a crowd of 6,000 people and said in part:

"It is fifty years, to a day since President Franklin Pierce signed the Kansas-Nebraska bill. We do not mean to praise him, or the author of the bill, Stephen A. Douglas, or those by whose votes the bill was enacted into law. Though our party prejudices are mollified by half a century and though now we can take a more judicial view of the act, we still find nothing in it which can reflect credit on those who were responsible for its passage. The act involved a breach of faith so palpable that its beneficiaries and supporters were embarrassed in its defense, while its opponents, anti-slavery men of the north, were roused to indignation of white heat by this deliberate breaking of a compromise which for thirty years had been thought to be as sacred as a provision of the constitution itself.

"If this be true, why do we commemorate the event? Why is there a gathering here of so much of the intelligence and patriotism of the great state of Kansas? We refer to day in the fact that the bill which was enacted into law fifty years ago, instead of accomplishing the purpose of those who voted for it, marks the beginning of the end of the controversy which eliminated from our social system the cancer of human slavery and permits us as citizens of the United States to look the world in the face when we proclaim our national love of freedom and civil liberty.

"The Kansas-Nebraska bill was the last great step of the slave power before actual secession which showed to a doubtful and hesitating north the extremity to which the institution of slavery could bring its supporters and it roused the north to a state of virtuous excitement which three decades of abolition propaganda had failed to stir."

MILITARY WEEK

Five Thousand Soldiers Paraded at World's Fair Monday.

St. Louis, May 30.—Military week at the fair opened to day with a parade of 5,000 men comprising United States regulars, state troops, cadets of various military academies, Grand Army men from Missouri, Indiana and Illinois. Bruswick's Fat Woman Is Famous Bruswick's fat woman is famous far and wide, but Bluehill, Me., claims to have a young woman coming along who will soon rival the best of them, says the Kennebec (Me.) Journal. It is solemnly asserted that, although she weighed only six and a half pounds at birth, she had achieved a weight of 211 pounds at the age of two years! This remarkable young lady, whose name is given as Miss Carrie M. Carter, is now eighteen years of age and tips the scale at 467. Her bust measure is given by the truthful correspondent as sixty inches and her hip measure as eighty-two inches. He also adds the interesting information that in the good old summer time she goes in wading with the other children and enjoys life generally.

Hard Blow For Japan.
The patriotism of the Countess Marguerite Cassini, niece of the Russian ambassador, Count Cassini, is beyond question, says a Washington special to the New York World. Countess Cassini had a marvelous gown, newly made of embroidered Japanese crape that cost a large sum. The story recently became public that on the day Russia declared war on Japan the countess contemptuously gave the gown to the cook at the embassy.

ARMY WALKING MATCH

Several Deaths and Many Prostrations Result From French Military Contest.

Paris, May 30.—Fatal results followed the army walking match yesterday from the Palace de la Concorde to St. Germain and back, a distance of about twenty-eight miles, in which two thousand soldiers took part. Reports received by the ministry of war show forty-two men missing and a number of them are believed to have succumbed to hardships. Besides those missing thirty-four men were taken to hospitals. Six are in a serious condition, one man is dead and another in a dangerous condition. Some reports place the number of dead at four. In the chamber of deputies to day War Minister Andre was severely criticised for permitting the contest. He admitted that a mistake had been made and a vote of confidence was passed only by a narrow majority.

MAYOR ENDS HIS EXISTENCE

BALTIMORE EXECUTIVE COMMITS SUICIDE

Criticism of Political Opponents Causes Temporary Insanity of R. M. McLain—Leaves Bride of Two Weeks.

Baltimore, May 30.—Mayor R. M. McLain of this city shot and killed himself at his home this afternoon. His bride of less than two weeks was at the time of the tragedy asleep in an adjoining room and was awakened by the discharge of a revolver, which McLain evidently fired while standing before the mirror of a dressing case. The bullet entered the right temple and crashing through the head escaped in the rear of the left ear. Mrs. McLain and other members of the household rushed to the mayor's assistance, but he died within an hour, not regaining consciousness after he fell to the floor.

No cause is assigned for the act by the family. Since the late last February McLain had been kept assiduously at work administering the affairs of the city, besides endeavoring to direct the rehabilitation and rebuilding of the burned district. This, together with criticisms by his political opponents, are thought by many to have caused temporary aberration of the mind.

WILL ARRIVE HOME SOON.

The following letter has been received here by a friend of Dr. H. H. O'neal, who hopes to occupy his pulpit at Grace M. E. church next Sunday:

"We are now on our way home. My arm has recovered so far that, with some discomfort, I am able to travel. This is my first attempt at writing, and I see that I am making a poor job of it. We leave here this evening for Portland, where we will spend Sunday, and then go on via the Canadian Pacific. On account of sickness my trip has been a great disappointment, having missed almost everything that I came for. Fortunately Mrs. O'neal has kept well and we have met hosts of old friends from Iowa and Illinois, who have shown us so much kindness and attention that the situation has been much relieved. I shall be glad to be at home again among the dear friends there. Remember me kindly to all."

STATE OSTEOPATHS.

Springfield, May 30.—The Illinois state Osteopathic association met here to day. The annual address was delivered by Dr. J. D. Cunningham, of Bloomington. Officers were elected: President—William Hartford, of Champaign.

Vice president—Ethel Burner, of Bloomington.
Secretary—Loretta L. Lewis, Paris.
Treasurer—Mrs. W. C. Carter, of Springfield.

The association has 126 members, and during the past year has doubled its membership, notwithstanding the prejudice which has been, and is yet held against the new school of healing. It was only twelve years ago that Dr. Still was the one and only representative of this new method of curing the ills of humanity, but since then the numbers have steadily grown, fighting through a period when they were utterly ignored, and another of tolerance, until now when the people are beginning to recognize the representatives of this new school as no faddists, but as factors in the healing of human disease. The representatives themselves are entirely self-confident and very enthusiastic and the number present this morning at the opening of the convention was greater by far than at any of the previous conventions.

GROVES

221 West State.

YATES, HAMLIN AND SHERMAN

Plan Is Said to Be to Make
Yates Governor Again, Hamlin
Senator and Sherman
Speaker—Country Combination.

(Special to Globe-Democrat)

Springfield, May 29.—When the Republican state convention reconvenes at 2 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon the first thing that will happen, after the formalities of approving the journal of the previous session has been observed will be the calling of the roll for the fifty-ninth ballot for the nomination of a candidate for governor. If the fifty-ninth is materially different from the fifty-eighth ballot, the change will be due to the developments of the next thirty-six hours, and not to anything that has transpired up to this time.

The recess, so far as may be judged by all that is publicly known, has contributed nothing to the breaking of the deadlock. If any combination has been arranged that will be powerful enough to elect any candidate the nomination, it is a most carefully guarded secret. The truth is, according to the almost universal view of the situation, that each of the three leading candidates (Yates, Lowden and Denen) is more strongly fortified than when the recess was taken, and that a combination between any two of them is too far in the uncertain future to be counted at present among the possibilities.

YATES DISPELS DOUBTS.

If there have been, during the recess, any negotiations looking to this result, the fact has been well concealed. Gov. Yates was quick to dispel all doubts as to what he would do by going to Chicago and making a three-day speechmaking campaign in the very heart of the "enemy's country." The chance that he has changed any delegate votes on the early ballots yet to be taken is slight; indeed, his Cook county campaign is declared to have been made on the theory that he had absolutely nothing to lose by it, while its effect, as applied to Cook county alone, would be the creation of a Yates sentiment among the masses that would give delegates, who, in the break-up, might vote for the governor, the support and justification of their constituents. How far the governor has succeeded in this direction, it is quite impossible to say.

The most important point in the case is that it has emphasized the fact that the governor is still fighting, and does not mean to give up.

Yet it is difficult to discover that Yates or any other candidate has won over a delegate that will increase his vote on the resumption of the balloting, though it is admitted that events of the recess may be fruitful of results at a later stage of the deadlock.

HINTS FROM LOWDEN MEN.

From the Lowden camp come mysterious hints that something may be expected to happen favorably for their candidate after the fifty-ninth ballot. Whether or not Lowden has made the gains that by inference at least, are claimed for him, it is clear that he has suffered no losses.

As to Denen, it appears certain that his delegates will stand by him, almost to a man, for an indefinite period. The Yates attorney and his campaign committee during the recess have been looking closely after their delegates and that body remains intact. There are as yet no signs of breaking in the Denen ranks. The lowest point reached by Denen at any time during the balloting was 35, and he closed at 38, only one vote short of the number received on the first ballot. This indicates something of the solidity of the state's attorney's organization. Yet Col. Lowden can point with quite as much pride—perhaps more—to his own unwavering phalanx; for, while the Lowden vote showed greater fluctuations than either the Yates or the Denen vote, it always remained above the number received on the first ballot, and at the end there was a net gain of thirty-eight votes for Lowden.

EARLY BREAK NOT EXPECTED.

These facts show how highly improbable it is that there will be an early break—that is to say, within the ensuing week—in the Denen or Lowden ranks, while, as pointed out a week ago, the Yates forces may be expected to be the very last to go to pieces. Even admitting that Yates vote may eventually fall to 400, and there is no probability that it will ever descend to that point—the governor will still be able to prevent the nomination of either of his two powerful rivals, under the conditions that prevail now and that seem certain to continue. The two Cook county candidates could settle the contest quickly by a combination between themselves, but, of all the possible combinations, this is the least likely to be made.

Within the week Mr. Denen's campaign committee has issued a circular letter, setting forth the claims of Cook county to the governorship this year; but this argument would count for nothing with the Denen men were the contest to become an absolute choice between Lowden and a country candidate. For the Denen organization to go to Lowden would be to restore William Lowden to the place of power from which, as a result of the recent primaries, he has been deposed.

FORCES BACK OF DENEN.

The forces back of Denen, after years of battling to exterminate Lowden, will never consent to a surrender to the "blind boss." On the other hand, Lowden is absolutely without a motive to pass the Lowden delegates in Cook over to Denen, for he could expect from the latter nothing but an unconditional surrender; and he is not of the stuff to show the white feather so long as an opportunity is open to him to become a party to a winning combination that will make a country candidate.

SIGNIFICANT CONFERENCE.

In view of this remarkable situation, one event of the week has attracted far less attention than its importance might rightfully claim for it. This was the conference held in Chicago last Wednesday between Gov. Yates, Attorney General Hamlin and ex-Speaker Sherman. No one except the three was present; the utmost secrecy was observed, and the conference lasted for an hour. All that any of the conferees could be induced to say about it was that they had "simply discussed ways of relieving the situation," and whether or not any progress was made in that direction is not known. Be that as it may, the fact that the conference was actually held is one of the greatest significances.

Three weeks ago nobody in the state was audacious enough to suggest a possible Yates-Sherman alliance. But the struggle in the convention has brought the candidate and factional leaders generally into closer relations, and it is not difficult to see that factional differences appear far less irreconcilable than was the case a few months ago. When, on the second day of the convention, the governor and the ex-speaker met in the side near the Morgan county delegation and shook hands with seeming cordiality, the incident was generally commented on. However, at no time were the two men in conference together until the other day in Chicago, when, with Mr. Hamlin, they met to talk over the deadlock.

HAMLIN SENATOR; SHERMAN SPEAKER

While the details of the Yates-Sherman-Hamlin conference remain undisclosed, it is a reasonable presumption that they discussed a projected combination of their forces, and the story is probably true that the alliance under consideration contemplated the re-nomination of Yates, the return of Sherman to the speakership of the house next winter, and the election of Hamlin to the United States Senate as O'Brien's successor in 1907.

Whatever may be the attitude of the three men with respect to this kind of a combination, it is certain that it was discussed by many of the delegates, just before the recess, as being the most promising plan for ending the deadlock. This would mean a country combination against Cook county—a circumstance that would strengthen it owing to the apparent determination of a majority of the country delegates to keep the governorship outside of Chicago.

ANALYSIS OF THE VOTE.

An analysis of the fifty-eight ballots already taken will show that such a combination is quite feasible, and would have a far greater chance of winning than any combination that possibly could be made between either of the Cook county candidates and the united anti-Yates forces in the country.

Thus on the last ballot the standing of the candidates was as follows:

Yates	483
Lowden	392
Denen	385
Hamlin	113
Warner	53
Sherman	46
Pierce	29

Necessary to a choice 752

Assuming that it would be possible for Denen to get all of the votes accredited to Hamlin, Warner, Sherman and Pierce, he would have only 626, or 126 short of the nomination. Denen getting the same country vote would lack 119 of enough to nominate. Yates, however, with the same country support, would be so near the nomination that he would have to pick up only 28 votes from the Denen and Lowden camps to make him victorious—and, of course, there is no doubt that these would be forthcoming, either in Cook county or outside of it.

MUST HAVE A MAJORITY.

Of course, any alliance between candidates that does not clearly carry with it a majority of the delegates may prove unsuccessful, and it is not to be denied that there are difficulties in the way of a combination between Yates, Hamlin and Sherman. Two other candidates, Warner and Pierce, who had on the fifty-eighth ballot a total of 82 votes, would have to be consulted, but probably neither would hesitate to join the combination if it presented an undoubted opportunity to end the deadlock. There is a question, too, as to whether Hamlin would be able to deliver all of his delegates. A part of them, it is certain, he cannot transfer at his pleasure, under all circumstances, but there is little doubt but that, with a probable winner in sight, practically all of the Hamlin delegates would follow his suggestion. Sherman has already demonstrated his ability to deliver his delegates. In this connection it may be said that Sherman is a much greater force in the convention than is indicated by his half hundred delegates. There are probably fifty men now voting for other candidates who, in case of a break-up, would follow the lead of the man from McDonough.

All things considered, it seems reasonably certain that Yates, Hamlin and Sherman, entering a combination, would be able to control a total of 700 votes, regardless of anything that would be contributed voluntarily by Warner or Pierce. This, beyond doubt, would mean the breaking of the deadlock, for it is generally admitted that any candidate who shall rise to the 700 mark will experience no difficulty in securing the remaining 52 votes necessary to give him the nomination.

TALK IN DEMOCRATIC CAMP.

In the excitement incident to the Republican convention, the Democratic state convention, which is to be held here June 11, has been almost lost sight of. The old Harrison-Hopkins feud has lost none of its bitterness, and, aggravated by the Hearst fight for presidential instructions, it promises to give the Democratic convention some interesting features. It seems probable that Samuel Alscheuler will be the nominee for governor. There is, however, a long list of candidates, most of them of the "receptive" class. The list includes Judge Robert E. Shirley of Carlinville, Judge Owen P. Thompson of Jacksonville, Judge B. R. Burroughs of Edwardsville, Judge William Farmer of Vandalia, Thomas A. Moran and William Prentice of Chicago, Mayor Silas Cook of East St. Louis, Mayor W. C. Crolius of Joliet, Mayor Henry Beckman of Kankakee, Frank J. Quinn of Peoria, Congressman Ben F. Caldwell of Springfield, State Senator L. B. Stringer of Lincoln and ex-Representative Elmore Hurst of Rock Island.

The Hearst-Hopkins alliance is likely to control the convention against Mayor Harrison. This will mean instructions for Hearst as president and the supremacy of the P. Hopkins in the party organization of the state. The fact that the

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering, for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Hairpepla absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Horpicle Co., Detroit, Mich. A DASTARDLY DEED

A Reward of Fifty Dollars for the Conviction of the Perpetrator.

A night or two since some one had the inconceivable meanness to use dynamite in Morgan lake, destroying a large number of fish. How any person could get so low down is past imagination. The wanton destruction of a hundred times as many fish as are taken and at this special time when it is particularly desirable not to molest them that they may deposit their spawn, is base in the extreme. The park is managed solely for the welfare of all persons and all are invited to enjoy it free of all cost unless they want to rent a boat. Families, parties, Sunday school classes, excursions, and, in fact, everybody who will behave properly will be welcome there and urged to use the park for proper purposes. No one gets anything out of it except the man who is hired to take care of it. Mr. Kitzer gives his valuable services entirely free of charge and all for the good of the public, and it is a burning shame that the lake should be treated in this manner. Fishing will not be permitted until about the first of July in order that the fish now in the lake be enabled to deposit their eggs and produce many more, and few, if any, of the commission will care to catch them. They are for the benefit of the public and the reasonable rules should be obeyed. Using dynamite in this manner is a grave offense against the law and a reward of fifty dollars will be paid for testimony which will result in the arrest and conviction of the guilty person or persons.

IN ST. LOUIS AND SOUTHERN ILLINOIS.

Last night Eusey Moore returned from St. Louis, whither he went on Thursday last, and was present at the opening of the Illinois building at the world's fair. At that time he met Messrs. George C. Barber and Sterling P. Bond, who are both now residents of St. Louis. Mr. Bond will be remembered as graduating from Illinois college in 1885, and Mr. Barber is now living at Webster Grove, a suburb of St. Louis, where he expects to remain during the fair.

The exercises of the opening were very complete and successfully carried out, and Governor Yates was very enthusiastically received and his speech was the most successful of all the addresses. After the speaking and reception a luncheon was served and the Illinoisans mingled fraternally.

Saturday morning Mr. Moore went to Anna to inspect the southern Illinois hospital there and stayed till Monday morning, finding Dr. Athol's management was continuing creditably, as it began. Dr. Athol was for four years—from 1897 to 1901—superintendent of the school for feeble minded children at Lincoln. The institution at Anna is very neat and one of the best conducted in the state.

SIGNIFICANT.

Robert Cassell has just received a Grimby (Eng.) News of May 20, giving an account of the "May Hiring." The report shows the difference in wages paid in this country and in England.

The demand for servants on Tuesday was particularly good, being occasioned to a very large extent by the influx of Yorkshire and Nottingham agriculturists. More "business" than usual resulted and the wages obtained were on the increased scale of recent years. Ladies asked from 10 to 14 pounds, and youths up to 18 pounds (second wagoners). Head wagoners asked from 18 to 22 pounds. There was a specially keen demand for female servants, and good wages were offered.

The same paper also has an item

regarding the price of potatoes which is instructive:

"It is significant of the continued value attaching to the Eldorado note, to that Mr. W. Harrison, auctioneer, Lincoln, has within the last ten days disposed of six of these celebrated tubers for a total sum of 161 pounds and 17 shillings."

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank the ladies of the Rev. James Caldwell chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for placing the beautiful flowers on the grave of our grandfather, Elisha Smith, who served as captain in the revolutionary struggle.

BACCALCUREATE ADDRESS

The baccalureate address to the young ladies of the graduating class of the Woman's college was delivered at Centenary church Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. A. L. T. Ewert.

The exercises opened with a hymn in which the choir and congregation all joined heartily. The audience then joined with the minister in repeating the apostles' creed. Rev. C. E. Baker then offered an earnest prayer and at its conclusion the choir sang, "Fear Not, O Israel." Dr. J. R. Harker then led in the responsive reading and was followed by Rev. Mr. York, who read the scripture lesson. Rev. Mr. Ewert preached an able baccalureate address, which was listened to with marked attention.

Robert Browning estimated the supreme interest in human life to be the development of a soul. This he concluded was the chief aim and end of life. All else must be secondary and subordinate. When Victor Hugo makes the bishop say to the convict "I have purchased your soul for God," he gave utterance to the highest sentiment. Jean Val Jean knew not its meaning until later when with the coin of the boy under his foot he went through that awful battle between the upper and lower realms of his being. It was then that the words of the bishop found a response. Browning is right. The true interest in human life is the development of a soul. This is the burden of the New Testament. Christ came in the interest of the soul and Saul constantly affirms the same great truth. "The world at its best is not over anxious for the glitter and show. It is in the life of the superficial and impulsive that ignores the last judgment. Ever and anon in pursuit of folly man recognizes his mistake and has an inner longing for something deeper and nobler. This is one cause why revivals are necessary. If they do not come from a direct effort they come as a reaction. Appearances often contradict experiences. "All that glitters is not gold." The world can never satisfy the longings of the soul. Paul would insist that there is a life that touches the very source of the deeper and better life. Herbert Spencer in his "Fundamental Principle of Moral Education" says that feeling and desire determine conduct and character; that these are not brought about by the mere acquisition of knowledge. While the latter is to be highly prized yet there must be something deeper. Paul argues that this is found in what he terms "Godliness." By this he means to affirm that the divine life may be felt and realized in finite form. That God is pleased to control our lives by His own will and purpose. John Ruskin in his volume "Unto the Last" declares that "there is no wealth but in life." Life is wealth. He is right. We are beginning to understand his meaning more and more. Life is the foundation to wealth in the individual, the home and state. Paul is in perfect agreement with this. Godliness to him means life. It is life! Its spirit and control leads to the highest attainment and results. This life is profitable for the present and future. It is a possession and brings about the ideal realization.

(3). Godliness in the greatest good in the realm of being. The soul is the real issue at stake. "Two forces are at work to capture it. One for evil and the other for good. Paul affirms with the knowledge of his own experience that Godliness is the only power adequate to train and develop the life in the interest of its true end. That this means the "keeping of the soul on top." Godliness then is a power within us as the art within the artist, as music is within the musician seeking expression. It is as the life of the plant manipulating the atoms to its own distinctive life of beauty and fragrance. Thus in behalf of life it is quality and joy, worth and realization. Godliness is the greatest possible good in the actual life of the individual.

(2). Godliness is the greatest good in the realm of influence. Paul says that "None of us liveth unto himself." We are not to keep the good to ourselves. There is to be a higher motive. We are not only to be good but to do good. Helen Keller gave abundant thought when she said that "no one should not feel perfectly at ease while another suffers." This is the spirit of the one who came not to be ministered unto but to minister. Dr. Willis tells of a man who came to him with his burden of unrest. He had traveled, seen everything, had money and all that heart could wish, yet unhappy. Why? Because he had not sought to make others happy. Self making is the cause of much of our discontent and misery. Godliness is that quality by which its manifestation reaches outward to help and bless others. Godliness will so conform the life to the higher ideal as that there will naturally, consciously and unconsciously radiate those influences calculated to lead others to a higher and better life. When Abraham was blessed it was that he in turn might serve a blessing.

"Then let a little sunshine in. Is not the only way? But let a little sunshine out. That all may catch a ray."

(3). Godliness is the greatest good in the realm of compensation. People usually work for pay. We expect a reward of some kind. This is natural. Jesus did not know this. For he spoke of profit and loss and sought to show that the worth of the whole world could not compare to the worth of the soul. He said, "The reward of the man who is serving God is that he will have the right of access to the Father. There would come the richest reward possible. The best rewards are not outward. Education, for instance, is its own best reward. There may come compensation in dollars and cents, but the real compensation is the life. It opens to glories otherwise never to be realized. So Godliness may bring many advantages and gains, but its real reward is its own life. It will be a safeguard, a life saver and a character. Its consummation is toward the divine ideal.

In closing the speaker addressed the class more directly:

(a). The fact that Jesus was called the carpenter's son was significant. No doubt he toiled at the work of building. The symbolical interpretation leads us to see him in his supreme mission, that of building souls for life and eternity. Let the Christ mould your lives. He has the plans and specifications. A life controlled by him will fulfill the highest requirements.

(b). The institution from which you graduate waited fifty years for you. It is said of Peter when in need of divine aid that God sent special help and brought him forth to liberty and opportunity and then the narrative says, "The angel left him." So in a few days you will be outside this institution and its protection. Do well your part and bring great credit upon the school that has qualified you for your future.

(c). When you go forth do not think of doing 'only one great thing. Not all can expect to fill the supreme places. Do the duties as they come. The poet says: "Some mighty task I said 'I'd do for thee, Some deed heroic that the world may know;

Some sacrifice to stir the stagnant times." And to the Lord made plain his will to me. For in my heart I heard this answer know. Clear as the echo of the vesper chimes; Wouldst thou best serve me? This is my command. Do thou the duty nearest to thy hand."

At the conclusion of the excellent discourse the choir sang another anthem, "Sullivan's Lost Chord." The congregation was dismissed with the benediction by the Rev. William McElfresh.

The music for the baccalureate service was furnished by a choir from Grace M. E. church under the direction of Miss Phoebe Kreider, and the anthems were given in a most beautiful manner and added greatly to the effectiveness of the service.

DECORATION DAY

SOLEMN ANNIVERSARY DULY OBSERVED

Through Inclement Weather Men and Women Gather to Honor the Memory of the Nation's Departed Heroes.

Monday, May 30 dawned rainy and cold but not enough so to dampen the patriotism of the ladies and gentlemen who had in charge the decoration of the soldiers' graves and the accompanying ceremonies. Flowers were brought in good numbers to G. A. R. hall and the committee were on hand to take charge of them and in the drizzle a good number went out to Diamond Grove and the Roman Catholic cemetery where the last resting places of the departed heroes were honored with flowers and the ritual observed as far as practicable.

Although the day continued so stormy and unpleasant a good number of the members of Matt Starr post assembled at the hall from which they were escorted by Jeffries' Concert band to Centenary church, where the exercises were held. Each man in line wore a bouquet pinned on by the ladies of the relief corps and though each year some well known face is missed, still the line was very creditable. Arriving at the church the veterans took the seats assigned them and were awarded every courtesy. Commander Goheen presiding.

First on the program was the stirring song, "America," by a male quartette consisting of Messrs O. L. Hill, J. P. Read, C. R. Stevens and W. C. Vieira, with Miss Elizabeth Mathews at the organ. The audience joining with a will. Rev. A. L. T. Ewert led in an earnest prayer after which the quartette sang the well known song, "We Shall Meet But We Shall Miss Him."

Miss Stella Shuff, whose gifts are so well known, then favored the audience with a fine recitation entitled "Our Army of the Dead." The young lady was at her best and spoke with great acceptance and superior ability.

Major C. E. McDougal then read in a clear, distinct voice Lincoln's immortal Gettysburg address.

The quartette again sang, this time "We are Going Down the Valley." The efforts of these gentlemen evinced a superior order of talent and their singing was a very pleasant feature of the occasion.

Commander Goheen then introduced Rev. Horace Reed, D.D., the orator of the day. A brief outline of his words is given:

"It is suitable once a year that all should gather to do honor to the memory of the heroic dead, not to aid sectional strife or a military spirit; to give the young of to day an idea of what their country cost. It seems but a short time since the people were awaiting with eagerness new from the front. How impressive were the funerals of the departed soldiers. All under 39 years of age were born since the war. There is great danger the fallen heroes will not be given the credit due them for what they did. A little more than forty-three years ago Sumter was fired on and what dark days followed, when a portion of our people, forgetful of the duties devolving on them, had madly plunged the country into war. Few in this audience can realize the feelings which prevailed when Lincoln called for troops to put down the rebellion. How varied were the replies from the several governors. Those south of the Ohio sent chilling, unpatriotic and impudent replies. Undaunted, President Lincoln went forward and loyal citizens replied in the north and a brave band of noble defenders responded and indifferent to cost and consequences they volunteered from Maine to California; from the mills, the cities, the fields, the fisher's flats and elsewhere, and nobly did they do their duty. It is impossible to depict suitably their bravery, loyalty, endurance and sublime heroism, but they have been told in story and song, and the same spirit which actuated the heroes of the revolution was shown both by natural born and of foreign birth; the colored soldiers are deserving a full meed of praise, over 200,000 colored men stepping into the breach to save the old flag (Applause).

At Fort Wagner the murderous assault was led by colored soldiers and many brave deeds are recorded of them.

Sad were the parting scenes when the volunteers left home. What sufferings awaited the brave men at the front. Hunger, cold, weariness, exposure were theirs. In the hospitals brave men languished, while in the awful prison pens 175,000 soldiers were captured, and so terrible were their sufferings that often they asked their comrades to put them to death. As long as the nation exists should the nation remember the cost of the salvation of our land.

The graves of the union soldiers are to be found in almost every cemetery of the land, sleeping silently until summoned by the Great Commander above. How sad that so many of the brave dead sleep in unmarked graves. In Arlington cemetery are the remains of more than 2,000 unknown dead.

"On fame's eternal camping ground. Their silent tents are spread And glory guards with ceaseless sound

"The bivouac of the dead."

But they died not in vain, for the results of the sacrifice are well known. The war dates a new era in the nation's progress of liberty and unity. A great mistake was made when our forefathers made a compromise with slavery. It was a cancer which had to be cut out by the civil war. Several times slavery attempted in vain to sever the union, but were frustrated without bloodshed; but in 1861 the dogs of war were let loose and more defeats than victories were ours until the emancipation proclamation was issued. (Applause.) Think of the results had the issue of the war been different. The chains of the slave would clank in every part of the land. Before the war there were many parts of our country in which freedom of speech was not permitted, but now it is all different.

Free speech now prevails where it was once unknown. It had a good test of this recently, when in the state of Mississippi I visited the state house and saw in the floor a brass tablet stating that on that spot Jeff Davis stood while he read his first proclamation. I stepped right on that tablet and said in tones loud enough to be heard by all the men about me: "The star spangled banner still waves," and no one molested me. (Applause).

The spirit of liberty prevailed in France. Oppressed Cuba has become free, protected by the stars and stripes until able to stand alone. Instead of the great ignorance which prevailed throughout the south, great efforts for education are being made by both races and more men like Gen. Joe Wheeler are ready to die for their country. (Applause.) Churches of various sects are getting together in brotherly love. This is largely to be accounted for by the character of the union soldiers. They were intelligent, thinking men, discussing the issues with more sense than has been shown by the Illinois legislature the past six years (laughter and applause). They came home from the field and bravely undertook the work awaiting them. (Applause).

It is very pleasing that the living soldiers have been so well remembered. Pensions and soldiers' homes have been generously supplied, more than in any other country. The ranks of the G. A. R. have given the country six presidents; Illinois seven governors and four senators at least, and perhaps more.

More attention should be paid the soldiers' wives and mothers and lady friends, such as Clara Barton and, above all, Mother Bickerdyke. When the national encampment met in Kansas City some years ago, the managers wanted to make it as big a thing as possible and so they suggested asking Mother Bickerdyke to be present, and she came gladly. During the business session in the large assembly hall a commotion near the door was heard. The presiding officer rapped for order and loudly demanded silence, which failed to come until some one said: "How can you expect us to keep still when Mother Bickerdyke has arrived?" At once there was a stampede for the door and first the old boys sought the privilege of shaking hands with her, then fell to hugging her, and at last they kissed her, and if I had been there I would have done the same thing and risked a suit for divorce in this easy state of ours (laughter and applause). At one time in a hospital a surgeon who had been on a spree had neglected a suffering soldier and at last when the offending officer appeared, Mother Bickerdyke attacked him in righteous indignation and ordered him to take off his straps and quit the service, declaring she would see to it that he was discharged if he didn't do it voluntarily. He was inclined to make light of her demands and pass-

Miss Alice Bailey, of Atlanta, Ga., escaped the surgeon's knife, by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I wish to express my gratitude for the restoration of my health and happiness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought me back to life."

"I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation."

"I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure that I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an encouraging way, and I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds and was in excellent health, and am now."

"You surely deserve great success, and you have it very well shown."—Miss Alice Bailey, 50 North Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga. —$5000 forfeit (if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced).

All sick women would be wise if they would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be well.

MEMORIAL SERMON

EXCELLENT DISCOURSE BY
REV. R. F. CRESSEY

Comrades of G. A. R. Hear an Inspiring Address at the Jordan St. Presbyterian Church
Sunday Morning.

The annual Memorial day sermon was preached Sunday morning by Rev. R. F. Cressey, at the Jordan Street Presbyterian church. Notwithstanding the fact that a drenching rain was falling, a large number of the veterans turned out and the occasion was also graced by the presence of quite a number of the ladies of the W. R. C.

The members of Matt Starr post, G. A. R., marched to the church in a body, headed by Commander L. G. Hechen. A space had been reserved for them in the center tier of seats and every courtesy possible was extended. The church was nicely prepared for the occasion by the ladies and presented a beautiful appearance, there being a great profusion of American flags and potted flowers.

The services opened with an anthem, "The Feast of Flowers," beautifully sung by the church choir, followed by "Gloria," by the congregation. The pastor then invoked the divine blessing upon the assembly.

Hymn No. 392, "Soldier in the Army," was sung by the choir and congregation, after which the scripture lesson was read, the pastor taking portions of Hebrews xi, beginning, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen," and "By faith Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac." He then offered up a fervent prayer that faith might ever be preserved.

The congregation united in singing hymn No. 382, "The Grand Review." The regular announcements were made, after which the choir again sang a Memorial day anthem, "Memory Bells." Rev. Mr. Cressey, before taking up his theme, briefly expressed his pleasure at having the privilege of addressing the old heroes who so bravely fought for a principle, as follows:

"Dear friends—fathers, shall I call you?—we are glad to welcome you to day and to stand before you and pay a tribute to the devotion with which you gave so much to the nation."

"Yes, the ranks are growing smaller with the coming of each May, and the hearts and locks once raven how are mingled thick with gray; soon the hands that strew the flowers will be folded still and cold. And our story of devotion will forever have been told. Years and years have passed by, comrades, though it seems but yesterday, since the blue-eyed northern legion marched to meet the southern gray. But a day since Massachusetts bade her soldier boys good bye, but a day since Alabama heard her brave sons' farewell cry. And the ranks are growing smaller and though decked in blue or gray, soon both armies will be sleeping in their shelter tents of clay. But the loud reverberation of the last salute shall be oft re-echoed through the ages as the tread of the free."

He then entered upon the sermon, speaking on the theme, "The Heroes of Faith and Their Achievements," taking as the text Heb. xii: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

Faith is the clear perception of something possible and desirable and worthy of attainment or the perception of some desirable and worthy condition to be sought for. The perception may be a revelation from God, a command of God, or a clear inference from scriptural principles. With it is the consciousness that the honest soul is in duty bound to seek to realize that condition.

Men who have had a high vision of better things and have been confident and steadfast in the effort to realize them may well be called "Heroes of Faith." It is of them and of their achievements that I wish to speak to day.

The very essence of faith is that the attainment of the desired blessing requires toil and sacrifice and depends on God's blessing for its success. In this sense the history of our country contains the names of many who have proved themselves "Heroes of Faith."

The early New England settlers had a vision of a community characterized by freedom of conscience and morality of life. Behold the loftiness of their vision and the courage and steadfastness of their faith. They founded a commonwealth on morality and intelligence. Theirs indeed was a glorious chapter in our history.

The breaking out of the revolutionary war marked the second chapter of American history. It, too, was a period of clear visioned faith.

"These united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states," such was the vision. And then they said: "Since this is true we ought to make them free," and they believed that because God helps righteousness He would lead them to success. In that faith they made their appeal to the world and to the God in heaven, and for the support of this declaration, with reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." Where in all the world will you find a more ringing statement of faith than that. Then as to the heroic courage it took to realize that thought of faith, let Valley Forge and other instances of untold privation and suffering and self-denial tell the tale.

With deliverance from England another chapter of American history was opened. What was to be substituted for English rule? The colonists dreamed of a government by the people for the people. Royalty laughed, kings sneered, despots mocked. But again it was given to faith to see a vision of the Lord and to lead in the Lord's good way. The Puritans of New England, the Protestant Dutch of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the French Huguenots of the Carolinas for almost two hundred years had been living under a representative form of church government and it is not strange that they stepped to a representative form of civil government.

With the election of Lincoln the nation was again called to meet a great crisis. The vision of faith was that of one great nation of people of kindred origin and when petty jealousies threatened to disrupt the nation, what should the answer be? To follow the vision of faith meant toil and suffering and war, but the answer of faith as embodied in Lincoln's immortal inaugural address expressed the answer of all. The firing on Fort Sumter in 1861 produced the same effect as the midnight ride of Paul Revere in 1776. Then came the test of the strength of their faith—the question whether they would be earnest and steadfast and unswerving in their devotion to this vision. I doubt if patriotism and fidelity to principle were ever put to a severer test. I do not believe that national history anywhere in the world gives a higher exhibition of heroic steadfastness and devoted effort than your generation gave to the world. It was not in defense of your homes you fought; it was not resistance to a tyrant. What was it? A constitutional principle and the limitation of human slavery. The demands on your faith were extreme—greater than if your homes had been threatened. First of all was the terrible loss of life; 300,000 Union men lay down their lives for such a cause. Then there was the loss of commerce, loss of prestige among the nations of the world, and a $3,000,000,000 public debt. Then you see what devotion it took to carry on a war for principle. And because of these things I say there is not in the history of the world a greater display of heroism and courage.

In the dark days of the winter of 1862 and 1863, when the tide seemed to be turning strong against the Union, Lincoln, weighed down by the weight of these troubles, went over to New York and spent a night in earnest prayer with Henry Ward Beecher. Read his letters to his friends, written in that dark hour, and see what that great soul went through and how high and clear his faith was. Yet except among the copperheads there was scarcely any sentiment in favor of giving up the struggle. It is easy for us who know these things only on paper to think lightly of them—only you who lived through them and suffered untold privations can appreciate the true conditions, only you can know how deep were the waters the nation passed through. Thank God for your heroic courage and unswerving devotion to the cause of truth!

I believe that the stand our nation took on that question and the answer she gave is the secret of the nation's marvelous prosperity since. I believe the God of nations rewards and blesses righteousness in nations.

The attitude of the people in the war prepared them to handle the after-war issues. Here again the same sense of duty, the same patient labor for the right marked all the nation's conduct. In one hundred years from the declaration of independence she had risen through faith and righteousness from a fanatical experiment to the first rank of nations. I do not hesitate to declare that the secret of it is her faith and loyalty to truth and righteousness, her faith in God and her fear of Him, her steadfast convictions of the solemn duty of doing the right, her faithful adherence to the right at whatever present cost of difficulty and danger.

This, fathers, is your honor and your glory you gave to the world a generation of men who feared God and dared to stand and to suffer and to toil for the right. Yes, more than that: Hear me! You not only saved the nation from destruction, but your high courage and splendid devotion lifted it up to so high a plane and settled it so firmly on its foundation of righteousness that until the memory of your patriotism is forgotten it, please God, can never be overthrown.

"Land of our boast and pride,
Home of the free,
Fondly we owe our allegiance to thee,
Lord of all nations in three is our trust,
Keep our loved country unspotted and bright,
Banish the wrong and deliver the right."

There is much I wanted to say of faith and its necessity to day, but my time is too short. This clear vision of right and wrong and this devotion to right is needed just as much to day as it was forty years ago. I pray that God in His infinite mercy may give to our generation the courage to do the right. May the Lord bless you, may we learn the lessons of faith and follow in your footsteps.

After the benediction by the pastor the congregation remained seated while the veterans passed out.

LONG DISTANCE TEACHER.

Kansas City Man Conducts Big Sunday School in Chicago.

George F. Moore, traveling auditor of the Chicago and Alton railroad, every Sunday comes all the way from Kansas City to superintend the Sunday school of the Washington Park Congregational church in Chicago. He arrived in the city at 9 o'clock the other morning, tired and grumpy after his 487 miles' journey.

"Just time to get cleaned up before Sunday school," he said as he turned on the water for his bath. He posted himself on events of the week as he changed his clothes. An hour later he was superintending the work of his 21 teachers and 400 scholars. At 6 p. m. he started on his return trip, a fifteen hours' journey. The next day he was at his desk in Kansas City, having traveled 974 miles.

That has been the Sunday programme of Mr. Moore since Jan. 1. It will continue to be his practice as long as his headquarters are in Kansas City. "I expect to be in Kansas City or in St. Louis three-fourths of the year," said Mr. Moore. "I shall, however, continue to act as superintendent of the Sunday school because I like the work. Were it not for an efficient staff of teachers I should not attempt to direct a school on the long distance plan. The instructors have ideas of their own for keeping up interest. One charming woman gives her boys carnations and roses after school. In the Bible class for boys prizes are offered for deportment, punctuality, text work and collections."

Mr. Moore has his own ideas on conducting a Sunday school. Here are some of them:

The first step is to love children and the work. Our scholars take home their lessons and try to follow our hour's Sunday school teaching in their everyday life.

Never chide a child. If he does wrong, talk to him gently and appeal to his sense of honor as though he were a grownup. Command him for every good action. Urge punctuality and regular attendance. Some of my teachers give their scholars vacations in the summer—when they have earned them.

My best teachers know something of the world and are not too "goody-goody." I don't believe in paid teachers any more than I do in paid clergies. Those who don't love the work should stay out of it.

My teachers recruit their scholars from their respective neighborhoods. I always have in reserve several substitute teachers.

Thumb Nail Photographs in Vogue. Diamond studded teeth were such a barbaric absurdity the caprice never went beyond a few silly pates who wanted "something new," but the thumb nail photograph really is coming into vogue now that it has been taken up in London by the engaged girls, says the New York Press. The nail first is manicured by a special process, then coated with a sensitized solution. Next over the nail a flexible film is imposed and secured by tiny clips at either side of the finger. This is treated just as the ordinary photograph is treated, and, if successful, the features stand out in bold relief against the delicate pink of the nail. But, alas, the nail grows, and with it the picture, elongating the features, so in time it becomes necessary to cut off the top of the head of the beloved one. The girl is left without the picture of her fiancé until another film is exposed. The wearing of diamonds in the thumb nails was tried by an actress, but found to be painful and dangerous.

WATCH WAS RETURNED.

About four weeks ago Mrs. J. W. Peaker, residing at 1112 East Independence avenue, went out, leaving her watch in the house, and when she returned it was missing. Search and inquiry failed to disclose the whereabouts of the missing time piece and it was supposed lost until a day or two since, when it was found in a mail box, carefully wrapped in a piece of paper. Probably the one who had it decided from some motive or other to return it to the rightful owner.

COMPLAINT HEARD

New Schedule on J. and St. L. Is Proving Great Inconvenience to Shoppers South of Here.

Considerable complaint is heard over the change of time recently inaugurated on the J. & St. L. system of the Burlington. The change which has been in operation now for over a week, is proving a great inconvenience to shoppers and traders from the southern part of the county. By the new schedule their time in the city is cut short over an hour and a half. It is believed that if the attention of those in authority was called to this fact that a change in the schedule could be brought about giving the citizens from the south the same amount of time that they formerly had. The proper way to go about this, it would seem, would be for a committee of the Business Men's association to take the matter up with the general manager, Mr. Delano, of Chicago. Mr. W. E. Crane, formerly general manager of the J. & St. L., and now connected with the Burlington system proper, with headquarters in Chicago, would doubtless do all he could to have the matter given reconsideration and could possibly assist materially in bringing about the desired change.

AT MEREDOSIA LAKE.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Johnson chaperoned a party of ten Monday, who enjoyed a day's outing at Meredosia lake.

Mr. and Mrs. William Huffman and Miss Blanche Huffman were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sullivan in Springfield. Miss Alma Sullivan accompanied them home and will be a guest at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Abram Wood, for two weeks or more.

ed on, but surely enough, in a short time he was let out. He went to General Sherman, begging to be reinstated, and the general asked on whose accusation he had been discharged, and when he replied, Mother Bickerdyke's, the general replied: "It's no use then for me to interfere, for she outranks me." (Applause).

More attention should be given these good women. Their names should be collected and published in a convenient form. It would be a noble work to begin right here (applause). In your own state and city you have one name worthy to be emblazoned in gold, Mrs. Richard Yates, wife of the noble war governor. (Prolonged applause).

But there are other questions to be solved. How are we to get rid of the evils of the saloon? How shall we get rid of the anarchists? Who shall restrict the immigration of so many from southern Europe? We are, too, in the greatest danger from the army of demagogues (applause). During the first years of the war the outlook was most disheartening, only to be enlivened by the song from far and near.

"We are coming, Father Abraham, Six hundred thousand more." Though dark days yet seem in store for us, the Lord God, Omnipotent, reigneth and we may take courage.

At Missionary Ridge the soldiers took things into their own hands, as the people will in this state if the politicians don't finish up and come home from Springfield. On and on those soldiers went, through shot and shell, until they reached the summit and drove the enemy from the stronghold. So I hope some day the evils will be buried, as the old woman said she would plant the devil face downward so that if he came to life the more he dug the deeper he would go. (Laughter and applause).

I am thankful so many comrades are left, but the time is rapidly approaching when the men who wore the blue will be gone, and more flowers will be needed for the cemeteries.

I long to hear my comrades say: "In the cross of Christ I glory." I long in the hereafter to gaze on the dear old flag. For 120 years it has been a symbol of freedom. We love it because it was borne by the heroes of the revolution; it cheered the martyr Lincoln, and the heroes of the civil war, and may it ever be a grateful beacon light of victory. (Applause).

AT THE CEMETERY.

At the close of the services, Rev. A. L. T. Evert pronounced the benediction and the veterans filed out and formed in the street. Headed by a platoon of police and escorted by Jeffries' band and Company I the column started, followed by quite a long line of vehicles. Conveyances were provided for the ladies with the flowers and the crippled soldiers and all arrived at the resting place of the dead in due time. As the sacred precincts were entered the band played a funeral march and the veterans passed on with uncovered heads to the place where the ceremonies are usually conducted. Commander Gohgen, with Comrades Melton and Kirkman, read the service, a squad of Company I fired the salutes and then the committees scattered to the graves with the flowers and the work was done.

NOTES.

The marching and general drill of Company I were commented on quite favorably by a good many persons.

Though the weather has been very unpropitious for work this spring the neat condition of the cemeteries reflects credit on the two boards of commissioners.

Comrade F. M. Ferguson made a good marshal and with the assistance of his aides handled his column in fine order.

The playing of the band was good, as it always is, and gave excellent satisfaction.

The address of Rev. Horace Reed was a splendid effort. He spoke with the feelings of a veteran, a patriot and an orator whose heart was full of his subject. Seldom has it been that a speaker gave better satisfaction on such an occasion.

COMMENCEMENT RECITAL

Graduating Exercises of the College of Music are Largely Attended—Brilliant Program Given.

The commencement concert of the College of Music was held at Centenary church Monday evening before a large and highly appreciative audience. The program was one of rare merit and the numbers were all given with fine musical taste and splendid ability. The audience was a most responsive one and each performer was heartily received.

Miss Jessie Bullard appeared first upon the program and her playing was of a high order of excellence. Miss Bullard has a finished technique and keen musical conception.

The second number, "Scene and Aria," was delightfully sung by Mrs. Lillian Batz Stice. She possesses a most pleasing voice and sings artistically.

An instrumental selection by Miss Mattie Deatherage was next given and in the fine interpretation of the number the young lady showed much talent.

Miss Anne Young, whose voice of unusual sweetness is always heard with pleasure, sang a group number. Her interpretation was faultless and she sang with splendid expression and fine feeling.

The last selection, skillfully played by Miss Jessie Vandine, concluded the first part of the program. The difficult composition was given in a fine manner and showed excellent ability.

The second part of the program was opened with a "Scherzo" from Saint Saens, interpreted in a most finished and artistic manner by Miss Ethel Hatch. Miss Hatch is a graceful performer and plays with accuracy and perfect expression. Her number was greatly enjoyed.

The audience again listened to a vocal number by Miss Young, entitled "Cavatine," by Gounod. The vocal powers of Miss Young were given admirable expression and her solo was listened to with great pleasure.

Miss Flora Balcke appeared in an instrumental number, "Ballade, Op. No. 20," and gave an excellent rendition of the exacting demands of the piece. Her work is always most admirable.

Miss Mabel Wilson was next heard in a double number, which was interpreted in a talented manner. Her technique was excellent and her playing showed marked ability.

Mrs. Stice was then heard in a second number, entitled "Sancta Maria," by Faure, which was most beautifully sung.

The program of the evening was concluded with a Chopin number rendered in a highly artistic manner by Miss Alice Briggs. The exceptional manner in which the composition was played was a splendid tribute to the musical ability of the performer.
